

LawJam 2014

R&B Inc. won their case in the court of public opinion, triumphing at LawJam 2014 held recently at the Variety Playhouse in Atlanta. Sponsored by the Atlanta Bar Foundation, the fifth annual Battle of the Atlanta Lawyers' Bands featured eight groups competing in front of more than 1,000 attendees. LawJam 2014 raised more than $50,000 through sponsorships, hosts and ticket sales, with additional donations at the event. The event proceeds will help support Atlanta youth programs and pro bono legal services. Buck O Five won the Best Original Song award for 'Girl.' Above, the LawJam 2014 audience cheers on The Psychics. Right, leaders of the Atlanta Bar Foundation and Atlanta Bar Association participate in LawJam 2014. From left, Atlanta Bar Association President Wade H. Watson III of Caldwell & Watson LLP, association Executive Director Terri Beck, David N. Schaeffer of Chilivis Cochran Larkins & Bever LLP, Jacquelyn H. Saylor of The Saylor Law Firm LLP, Atlanta Bar Foundation Executive Director Sally Hogsette, Michael B. Terry of Bondurant, Mixson & Elmore LLP, S. Wade Malone of Nelson Mullins Riley & Scarborough LLP, Elizabeth A. Price of Alston & Bird and William M. Ragland Jr. of Womble Carlyle Sandridge & Rice LLP.

Special / Neal G. Patton and Matthew Cohen

Atlanta Bar Foundation Executive Director Sally Hogsette is honored as the 2014 inductee into the LawJam Hall of Fame. From left, Brenton Hund of Turner Broadcasting Systems Inc., Hogsette and LawJam 2014 emcee Bert Reeves, an attorney at Garrett McNatt Hennessey & Carpenter 360 LLC.

Buck O Five, which includes members Paul Sieg, Todd Johnston, Phillip Buchanan, Jack Browning and Steve Hensley, won for Best Original Song at LawJam 2014.

Joe Ciucci, attorney at Duane Morris LLP, plays the drums for Comrade Blue.

From left, Alston & Bird LLP attorneys Samara Pals Cramer, Andy Yates, Swathi Padmanabhan, Karissa Fleming and Ty Barringer perform with their band, Non-billable Hours, at LawJam 2014.

At left, from left, Barry Selvidge, Bert Reeves, Joe Glasso, Joe Longo, Matt Walker, Brenton Hund, Joe Ciucci, Phillip Buchanan, Nathan Woody and Jim McGuone, representing multiple bands, entertain the house with a final jam at LawJam 2014. Far right, Jack Browning, district attorney for Polk and Haralson counties, plays lead guitar for Buck O Five.

